A troubled wife was loosing sleep over her husband's fondness for the stock market over and above his family life. Every attempt to bring about a correction used to a tremendous uproar between bull and bear (read: husband and wife).

The wife came to know about a swamiji who had camped in an ashram in the vicinity of their villa. The wife said, "Swamiji, my husband talks only about FDI, FII, P/E, EPS, bonus and dividend..."

The swamiji responded, "Don't worry, I'll check his futures and options..."
